DEMAND HOUSES BE SOLD THEM AT ESTIMATES

Home Builders Stand Indicated
in Reply of George E. Wallace in Test Suit

SAYS COST WAS LIMITED

Verbal Estimate of Cost of House is Declared Binding
by Mr. Wallace

That persons for whom homes were built by the Home Building association of the state will demand that they be given the homes at the verbal estimate of the association management is indicated in the reply of George E. Wallace, former tax commissioner, whose case is regarded as a test of the class of home builders for whom homes were built on order.

Replying to suit instituted by Attorney General Johnson to require him to pay the full cost of the house built for him in Bismarck, as shown by the records of the Home Building association, Mr. Wallace maintains the state should deliver the house to him at a price he said was given him by R. B. Blakemore, former manager of the association, William Prater, former assistant manager and James Baker, former superintendent of construction.

The case may soon be heard in the Bismarck district court. Mr. Wallace, through William Langer, his attorney, said that "through authorized representatives of the Industrial Commission which under said law had complete charge of said plaintiff association, is agreed to build a dwelling house for this defendant."

"In the city of Bismarck, which property was at the time owned by this defendant, and that the plaintiff through its manager, Robert Blakemore and assistant manager, W. J. Prater and its superintendent of construction, James Baker and other agents and representatives contracted with this defendant that the said dwelling house, according to the certain plans and specifications filed with the plaintiff and accepted by the plaintiff including such equipments as were accustomed to be used in dwelling houses and including various extras should not exceed the cost of $3,300 to this defendant."

While Mr. Wallace declares the association agreed to build the house for not exceeding $3,300 the total charge made against him is over $11,000. He declared that in reliance on the Home Building Assn. fulfilling its promises he conveyed a lot to them, that the association has refused to deliver a contract and that it failed to furnish electric fixtures agreed upon totalling $99.95. He says he is willing to take the house at the figure he names, and asks the suit be dismissed.

Should the claim of Mr. Wallace be substantiated in this and other cases the total loss to the state in the Home Building association would be near $300,000.

GOV. SMALL IN DEMAND WOMEN SERVE ON JURY

Waukegan, Ill., April 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Governor Len Small today demanded that women sit on the jury which is to try him on charges of conspiracy to embezzle state funds.

Through his attorney he challenged the entire jury list of Lake county because only men had been called.

SIX LICENSES ARE REVOKED

Attorney General Asserts Others May Follow

Six licenses of pool rooms and soft drink parlors have been revoked with in the last week, Attorney General Johnson announced today. Four of these were in Minot, one in Grand Forks and one in Fargo. A hearing will be held on another case in Fargo this week, he added.

The attorney general, in making the announcement, emphasized his policy in conducting this pool hall license and inspection department, a branch of his office, by stating that licenses will be revoked in all cases where violations of law by proprietors are shown sufficient to warrant the revocation. Cooperation of local authorities is being sought and received, according to Mr. Johnson, in detecting violations.

The main charges on which the above revocations were made were the handling of liquor, he said. Permission to minors to loiter in such places and gambling are among other law violations which he says justifies revocation of licenses.

ASK JURISDICTION BE LESSENER

Sheldon, N. D., April 3.—Petitions have been put in circulation here and will be circulated in other sections, asking abolition of increased jurisdiction in Ransom county court. The petitions were liberally signed by local taxpayers, many of whom have expressed the opinion that the present jurisdiction places an unnecessary and extra burden on the people. It will require the signatures of 20 per cent of the voters and taxpayers of the county before the county commissioners will act and order a vote. It is stated that if sufficient signatures are obtained the matter probably will go before the voters at the primary election in June. Reduction of the jurisdiction would result in the immediate decrease of the judge's salary from $2,500 to $1,000. Proponents of the change contend that Ransom county already has an abundance of legal machinery.

ICE BREAKING UP IN RIVER SOUTH OF HERE

River Free From Mobjridge, S. D., According to Reports to Weather Bureau

BREAKS AT BISMARCK

Ice Gorge Forms South of City, Causing Rise of Two Feet in the River

Warm sunshine made a vigorous attack on the ice in the Missouri river Sunday, with result that the river has broken at some points and all of the ice is expected to be floating downstream within a day or two.

The weather bureau reported today that the ice broke at Mobjridge, S. D., at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon and that the river was filled with floating ice from there on south.

The ice broke at Bismarck Sunday afternoon, moved two miles and stopped, the bureau reported. This gorge below the new vehicular bridge caused the river to rise two feet but it has since fallen a foot and a half, leaving the stage at 9.5 feet.

The river is open at Ft. Clark, near Washburn, and the ice is expected to break at Ft. Yates today.

Indications are that there will be no great flooding of lowlands, because the river is opening up to the south first and because of the breaking of the first gorge just below the city.

Several hundred people went to the river yesterday afternoon expecting to see a big break-up in the ice. At 1:30 in the afternoon there was a boom, as the ice broke between the bridges. The ice moved for about 20 minutes and then stopped, the gorge having formed. Later it moved for a considerable distance.

March lived up to the adage, "come in like a lion and go out like a lamb," according to the monthly meteorological summary of the weather bureau. On March first the lowest temperature was 18 below zero; on March 31 it was 22 above and the maximum 43 above.

There was a trifle less sunshine than usual, the total amount being 1 per cent below normal. The percentage of possible sunshine was 55. There were 12 clear days, 3 partly cloudy and 15 cloudy. The temperature of the month averaged 5.2 above normal.

The total precipitation of the month was 0.70, the snowfall being 6.8 inches. This is a deficiency of 0.34 for the month, but there is an accumulated excess of 0.51 since January 1.

Mr. Moore asked that a committee be appointed by the speaker to ascertain why the executive order was issued and whether any investigation of conditions at the bureau preceded its promulgation. Barney Bussen, former state enforcement officer, was in Bismarck today for a conference at the Workmen's Compensation Bureau on the subject of injuries received when he was shot by a gang of thieves near Mohall last summer. Bussen had been granted a 75 per cent disability for one eye and is conferring with the bureau on the loss to be awarded for injuries to his left arm.

The fight out on the prairies near Mohall last summer was the most stirring episode of the booze runner chase around Minot. Bussen and a deputy sheriff were out in a car late at night hunting for the band. They met on the road. Both parties were armed. In the fight which ensued Bussen and the deputy sheriff were shot.

Bussen received 32 shot wounds from a sawed-off shot gun. Twenty-one of the lead bullets he still carries in him.

Bussen, more dead than alive, stumbled into a farm house after the fight ended and the robber band made its getaway. He recovered partially in time and then participated in the chase of officers which finally ended in rounding up the gang, all of whom received prison sentences.

MINERS' STRIKE TODAY COMPLETE REPORTS SHOW

First Real Test of the Strike Shows Practically All Union Miners Out

U. S. HEARING BEGINS

Mine Leaders Chief Appears in Washington—Hard Coal Workers Negotiating

(By the Associated Press.)
Suspension of work in the nation's coal fields is practically complete, it is shown today in the first real strength of test of the union miners strike brought on by inability to negotiate new wage agreements.

Union officials today asserted late advices indicated that non-union miners in the bituminous fields were joining the ranks of the strikers.

In some places foreigners took advantage of the strike to start out for a visit to the old country.

Some mine mules who had not seen the light of day for years were grazing in fields near the various shafts.

The geological survey announced today at Washington that bituminous production of 114-2 million tons for the week ending March 23, confirmed the forecast of 67,000,000 tons in consumers hands on April 1.

Kansas operators today made no effort to open mines pending separate meetings of miners and operators in Kansas City today to discuss the order of the industrial court for a 30-day continuance of the old working arrangement.

The estimates by union leaders of 600,000 striking union miners excluding only the miners of eastern Kentucky and Alabama seemed well borne out. Officers of the United Mine Workers estimated also that 100,000 non-union miners had joined the union walkout.

Rail Men Out of Work.
Several thousand railroad workers engaged in the transportation of coal in mining districts were thrown out of work. Suspension is not expected to affect workers in other industries for sometime to come. In fact, according to federal officials the stocks of coal on hand in this country are so large that only a strike of long duration is likely to affect industry to any marked extent.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, told the house labor committee at Washington today that the union miners were desirous of ending the walk-out at the earliest possible date but that such action depended entirely on the future attitude of the coal operators. The operators, he said, had repudiated their agreements to meet the miners and negotiate a new wage agreement collectively for the whole bituminous field. He welcomed government investigation of the coal industry.

Confere in New York.
Conditions in the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania differ from those in the bituminous fields of Pennsylvania differ from those in the bituminous fields inasmuch as wage negotiations are now being held in New York out of which an agreement is freely prophesied to come. The 155,000 striking hard coal miners have settled down to await the outcome of the New York conference and should an agreement result they will immediately resume operations.

FIRE UPON MINERS.

Beckley, W. Va., April 3.—The first shooting in the West Virginia mine field since the strike was called was reported from Royal, Raleigh county, today. A car filled with miners was fired upon from the Fayette side of River. Bullets fairly hailed around them and the clothing of one miner was pierced.

NON-UNION MINES WORKING

All non-union mines in this district are working, according to H. H. Lidstrom, of the Spring Valley Products Co., which is running a night and day force at its mine. No reports of walkouts other than at the Wilton mine had been received this morning by John Hanwell, state mine inspector. He left at noon to visit a number of mines west of the river.

Minneapolis, April 3.—After nominating a complete state ticket and a candidate for United States senator, and turning down a plea for a fusion with the Democrats, the state convention of the Nonpartisan League adjourned its session here Saturday night.

The convention adopted a suggestion for a new constitution to govern a skeleton organization to be known as the Minnesota Division of the National Nonpartisan League.

Henrik Shipstead of Minneapolis was endorsed as a candidate on the farmer-labor ticket for the United States senate and Magnus Johnson of Kimball was selected to make the run for governor. All the candidates chosen will run at the general election, it having been decided not to place any one in the field for the primaries in June.

Soldiers Swear Allegiance to Republic; Disorders Continue in Belfast

Dublin, April 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—The meeting addressed by Michael Collins at Castle Bar, county Mayo, last night, was stopped by members of the Fourth Western Division of the Irish Republican army after stormy scenes in which a woman was wounded, according to accounts reaching Dublin this morning.

The chief of the provisional government and his party returned to their hotel and the officers who had proclaimed the meeting at an end followed declaring that no one would be allowed to leave until Mr. Collins and his friends had surrendered their arms.

The accounts received here do not state whether the Collins party was disarmed, merely saying that "some people who left the hotel were searched."

The telegraph wires around Castle Bar were cut and when the newspaper correspondents were boarded a train for Athlone they were ordered by two officers to go to the barracks.

ALLOWS MEN TO CARE FOR CROPS

Williston, N. D., April 3.—District Judge John C. Lowe has perhaps established a new precedent in releasing five convicted prisoners recently committed to the county jail, with the provision that all return on Nov. 1 to complete their sentences. The reason for Judge Lowe's action is that all of the released men are farmers, and if compelled to serve their entire sentences now it would result in the loss of their crops and probably their farms. Before permitting their release, the judge required the court costs assessed against each to be paid in cash.

LEGION IS NOT POLITICAL CLUB

Has no Connection with County Organization Adjutant Says

The Fargo, N. D. County Veterans' Association has no connection whatever with the American Legion, according to P. C. Harrington, adjutant of the 11th and 12th Spetz Post. The statement was made in answer to numerous inquiries concerning the meeting of the political club to be held April 5. The club has rented the American Legion hall for the night. The political club embraces veterans of all wars.

The purpose of the political club, it is stated, is to review the records of candidates for state offices and the legislature, to oppose any candidates the service men feel do not represent their ideals of citizenship and to gain representation for service men in the government. It was said it is not likely that the club will take any part in county politics.

It is possible, it is said, that the service men will seek to have a service man on the legislative delegation from Burleigh county.

MOTOR VIBRATIONS

Some people are sensitive to love vibrations, others to thought vibrations; then we have radio vibrations—and motor vibrations.

Does your motor vibrate? Can you determine your car's speed without consulting the speedometer? Do you feel vibration in the steering wheel and floor board? It means motor and loss of power.

If you do, your motor crankshaft needs realigning and reprocessing for motors which are "fit" deceive as to speeds. They run at fifty miles an hour with ten mile an hour smoothness, and seemingly, without effort.

We reprocess and realign crankshafts with factory precision, equipment and methods.

Let us show you our equipment for doing this work, also show you the absence of vibration in motors we reprocess.

CAPITALISTS AND "BOES," INVADE MUSCLE SHOALS

Influx of People Taxed Ingenuity of Town and Civic Authorities

NO-WORK, NO-SOUP PLAN

Every Man Who Wanted Food and Shelter Was Given Job Chopping Wood

Florence, Ala., April 3.—With the interest of the nation fixed for months on Muscle Shoals, an influx of people to the district has constituted a problem that has taxed the ingenuity of town and civic authorities.

Agitation of the potential strength of "the South's Niagara" and the possibilities that were expected to be speedily fulfilled in event of development of the latent war project, turned a veritable stream of humanity in search of the El Dorado. Folks came on foot, in horse carts, in motor cars, in day coaches and in palatial drawing rooms. There were men with money seeking investments; men in overalls hunting work. There were adventurers looking for anything they might find. Some spent money lavishly; others were wards of the community and had to be fed.

The problem at once became so grave that the town authorities of Florence, Sheffield and Tusculum—municipalities composing the district's "tri-cities"—sent out a warning: "Stay away from Muscle Shoals unless you come on legitimate business and have an engagement in advance."

This stopped some of the fortune hunters, but yet they came.

Community Was Stunned.

The first offer for the government's property caused, complete metamorphosis of the district. The community was stunned when war work was stopped the day the armistice was signed. Putting machinery in "stand-by" condition was a symbol of disappointed hopes. But the resultant somnolent condition was reawakened overnight when the word went forth: "Muscle Shoals is to be developed." Everybody in the district believed that a bid meant other bids and that competition in the field would result in acknowledgment by the government that Muscle Shoals would not be scrapped.

The people of the district formed the policy of extending a welcoming hand to builders and the real estate boards of the three cities declared that realty prices should not ascend beyond un-

The Wake of Ruin Left by Cloud burst and Spring Thaw

This remarkable picture was taken at midnight and shows the recent flood that swept through Burlington, Kansas, as a result of a cloudburst, when it was at its height. The picture was taken by flashlight from the roof of one of the business blocks. Water reached more than half way to second stories of downtown buildings. Several were drowned before the water subsided.

Floods along the Mississippi River this year are worse than usual. The picture shows what happens in Memphis, Tenn., when the "Father of Waters" goes on a rampage. This view is at the foot of Illinois avenue, and shows docks, streets and railroad tracks all inundated. The river is still rising and hundreds of volunteers are working to prevent the flooding of thousands of acres of the lower lying farm lands.

reasonable levels. These boards, it is stated, have largely controlled prices of real estate. A few speculators edged in, however, and small tracts of undesirable land have been optioned and sold at figures not within bounds set by the realty associations. It is asserted, though, that actual cheating and faking has trapped but few persons. There are no swamp or low lands in the region, the realtors declare, but some of the property offered is situated many miles from the Tennessee river and the nitrate projects.

Much property is said to have changed hands over a stretch of territory along the river for a distance of twenty-five miles. The state of Michigan, it is said, has furnished more buyers than all the other states combined, with the possible exception of Alabama. Town lots have sold at from a few hundred dollars to $10,000. Farm land contiguous to the towns has brought from $50 to $125 an acre. Many of these near-by farm tracts have been optioned or purchased with a view of subdividing in event of looked-for developments.

Authorities of the tri-cities say the three municipalities will constitute the hub from which will radiate one of the industrial miracles of the age, no matter who the successful bidder may be for the government property.

The Muscle Shoals Book.

Extravagant stories circulated concerning conditions in the district brought out "The Muscle Shoals Book," endorsed by town and civic organizations and edited by one of the community's leading ministers. It sets forth authentic data for those who have the vision and courage to build themselves into the certain development of the Muscle Shoals territory.

"Woman's Place," with Constance Talmadge, is showing today, Monday, at the Eltinge. It is an amusing story of a young woman running as a candidate for mayor. It is a battle between the Woman's Political League and the politicians and the contest is not only amusing but interesting. Kenneth Harlan is the leading man.

"Once to Every Woman" is the splendid human drama starring Rudolph Valentino and Dorothy Phillips, which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre tonight.

After an absence of quite some time when she appeared in "The Heart of Humanity" which was such a splendid success, Dorothy Phillips returns to the screen in a story different from anything she has done in some time. "Once to Every Woman" is a story of plain folks with big ambitions for their oldest and talented daughter who sings in the village choir.

From an atmosphere of rural home life, where peace and calm prevail, director Holubar builds his story to a spectacular and really gripping climax which is bound to get over in a big way, inasmuch as he works up to

BOOST MISSOURI RIVER VALLEY FOR ITS GREAT AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION

An organization known as the Missouri River Farmers' Association has been elected among representative farmers and landowners along the Missouri river in Iowa, Nebraska, the Dakotas and Missouri, with a view to encourage further progress in the development of agriculture all along the valley, says the Aberdeen, S. D. News.

The purpose of the Missouri River Farmers' Association is to encourage a closer study of the resources of the lands bordering the Missouri river and to acquaint the public with the fertility and productiveness of this marvelous bottom, the most extensive in acreage of any river valley in America. These Missouri river farms offer unlimited possibilities in agricultural production and proportionate advantages for investment and operation.

"The Missouri river bottom lands are a vital part of the 'Bread Basket of the World.' No other like area in this country possesses greater natural fertility. No other section is adapted to a greater variety of crops. None produces year after year greater yields of the staples, corn, wheat and alfalfa, in proportion to the acreage. These bottom lands contain the silt washed in from the hillsides down through the ages.

"The area of these bottom lands exceeds 12,000,000 acres, greater in extent than the area of Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Maryland or Delaware. The population exceeds 2,000,000, actually greater than that of twenty states of the Union.

"We recognize that these Missouri river bottom lands are just beginning to attract in a broad way the more favorable attention of the public and it is the hope of this association to furnish reliable information that will further inspire and increase this growing confidence. And it is the purpose to stimulate progress among our people along economical and practical lines in community development."

NEED OF GOOD BALL PLAYER HER DOWNFALL

The need of the town of Stanton for a good baseball player was the spark which finally resulted in Mrs. Anna Gibbs being sentenced to the penitentiary for four years on a charge of arson, according to the record of the office of R. A. Middaugh, state fire marshal.

Mrs. Gibbs maintained a barber shop. The town needed a baseball player. They got one who also was a barber. Mrs. Gibbs, according to Middaugh, was forced to see her business ruined. Financially embarrassed she cut holes in the lath of her home, stuffed in inflammable material and gave the fire department a run. Lack of oxygen caused a fire, started in a closet to smoulder. This evidence was obtained by firemen. All this according to the records of the fire marshal's investigation.

Mrs. Gibbs, brought before Judge Pugh, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to four years in prison, the sentence being suspended with a recommendation to the pardon board that a parole be granted.

The case against Gottlieb Bertsch, of Stanton, charged with arson, was dismissed. He won a civil action against the insurance company. The fire marshal declared the case still was under investigation.

Live Stock Sanitary Board Receives Reports Upon Conditions in the State

OUTBREAK OF GLANDERS

The State Live Stock Sanitary board, in its meeting here, received the report of the executive officer and state veterinarian, which showed that a serious outbreak of glanders was contended with in the vicinity of New Rockford, a large number of animals being exposed through the prevalence of the disease in a community pasture. One thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine horses were mallein tested, 87 being condemned and destroyed. It is believed the disease is practically eradicated at this time.

A serious outbreak of horse mange also occurred in the New Rockford territory. A large number of horses were affected and exposed. Owing to the severity of the weather, it was impossible to apply treatment to eradicate the disease. The community is now arranging for dipping tanks and, when conditions will permit, all diseased animals, and exposed animals, will be properly treated so that the disease will be eradicated.

It would appear that the horse industry has passed through the most serious stage of financial depression, as it is anticipated there will be a gradual increase in the demand for horses and their value will be considerably enhanced in the near future.

Eradication of Tuberculosis

A campaign for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis has been continued during the period. Five hundred and sixty herds have been established as fully accredited tuberculosis-free herds. From July 1, 1921, to March 1, 1922, 2,373 herds have been tuberculosis tested, comprising 45,277 cattle; 1,291 animals were found affected with tuberculosis, practically all these animals having been slaughtered. Owing to the extremely low value of beef products during the last several months, very little has been secured from the sale of the salvage of the condemned animals which, accordingly, has made an increased drain on the fund provided for indemnity.

Both state and federal funds were so depleted in this respect that these departments were compelled to suspend the tuberculin testing of any new herds of cattle until after July first, when a new federal appropriation will be available. After July first, the work will be taken up in the way of testing new herds so far as possible, as the conditions of the fund will permit. It is anticipated that possibly some financial assistance may be secured through an appeal to the State Emergency Commission.

Rules were established by the State Live Stock Sanitary Board, providing for the uniform appraisal of cattle condemned on account of tuberculosis. In view of the fact that such animals can be sold for no other purpose but immediate slaughter, their value must be largely based upon what they are worth in the beef standpoint, due consideration being given to the grade of cattle, whether common grade cattle or pure bred cattle.

Both the federal and state regulations provide that, after herds of cattle have been fully accredited, they must be tested annually by an accredited veterinarian and the test made at owners' expense.

Effect on Milk

The executive officer drew to the attention of the board, an address made by Dr. W. A. Evans, former city health commissioner of Chicago, his subject being "Why Health Departments Are Interested in the Tuberculosis-Eradication Campaign." Dr. Evans was a pioneer in his efforts to establish a milk ordinance requiring that all milk sold in the city of Chicago come from tuberculin tested cows or that said products must be pasteurized. Dr. Evans made the following statements in his address which he supported by statistics and other authorities:

1. Bovine tuberculosis causes disease death directly by infecting human beings.

2. It lessens the supply of milk and increases its cost, though indirectly predisposing to tuberculosis and other preventable disease.

3. It lessens the meat supply and increases its cost and in other ways increases the cost of living.

4. It decreased the profits to the milk producer and farmer.

5. The relationship between the human and bovine tubercle bacilli leads health departments to the opinion that, while programs for the repression of human tuberculosis which take no note of tuberculosis in other animals may be successful, the time to strike for the repression of human tuberculosis cannot come until the program for control of bovine tuberculosis is well advanced.

From Dr. Evans' remarks it can be readily seen that the eradication of bovine tuberculosis is extremely important from a public health standpoint, in view of the fact that the disease is fully demonstrated as being transmissible to the human family, especially young and growing children. It would be readily seen that money expended in the eradication of bovine tuberculosis reflects towards the prevention of this disease being contracted by the human family.

During the past winter, a number of sporadic outbreaks of bloody diarrheas were reported. It has been fully demonstrated by the examinations made at the laboratory that these outbreaks were due to a specific cause, known as Coccidiosis. While no serious loss has occurred through the disease, there has been some confusion in recognition.

Woman In Race For Senate Defies Men's Efforts To Defeat Her

Miss Belle Kearney, candidate for the United States Senate from Mississippi and some of the reforms she asks.

By NEA Service

Jackson, Miss., April 1.3.—"Nothing but my own death can take me out of this race!"

That's the statement of Miss Belle Kearney, woman candidate for United States senator from Mississippi, a state that bitterly fought the national woman suffrage amendment to the last ditch.

Political observers here say Miss Kearney's chance of winning is good and that a queer twist of political fate may cause Mississippi to send one of the first women to the Senate!

Miss Kearney repeatedly has defied masculine elements that have sought her withdrawal from the senatorial campaign.

Not a "Quitter"

"After the bitter fights I have gone through to gain state and national prohibition and to win the ballot for women, I am not easily eliminated," she says.

Men have been so in the habit of eliminating or effacing women, that it's only natural for them to run true to form, women, that it's only natural for them to run true to form.

"But they forget they are faced by

THE KEARNEY PLATFORM

Here are the planks in the platform on which Miss Belle Kearney, candidate for United States senator, is running, defying attempts of men to get her to withdraw from the race:

Disarmament and entry of the United States into the League of Nations.

Legislation toward making the United States a nation of home owners rather than that of renters.

Strict enforcement of the Volstead act.

Protective legislation for women in industry.

Restricted immigration.

Laws to enforce social morality.

Advocacy of a federal department of education with secretary in the cabinet.

A more vigorous public health policy.

Reduced taxation, federal aid for farmers, progressive labor legislation.

A new situation that looms like a stone wall—the enfranchisement of women.

"As a citizen of Mississippi I shall fight for my rights and the rights of every woman of the land if I have to battle alone without a campaign manager and without a campaign fund!"

Will Stump State

Miss Kearney started her active senatorial campaign as soon as it was established that Senator John S. Williams would not run for re-election.

With a brief platform she's now planning to stump every county in the state.

Having started her career as a school teacher, Miss Kearney early turned to uplift work. She became one of the best lecturers and organizers of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

She toured every state in the interest of this organization before federal prohibition legislation was passed. She also was an ardent suffrage worker.

In the World War she went to France at her own expense and engaged in relief work.

While several other candidates may enter the race, Miss Kearney's only possible opponent now is ex-Senator James K. Vardaman.

ing the trouble, owing to the resemblance to hemorrhagic septicemia and the fact that it is extremely rare that this disease occurs during very cold weather.

Little Hog Cholera

While some few outbreaks of hog cholera prevailed during the past fall season, the loss was only nominal, this disease being prevented to a large extent by the use of anti-hog cholera serum.

A report was received from the chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry indicating that a serious outbreak of foot and mouth disease prevailed in Great Britain and involves 968 herds, requiring the slaughter of 43,735 animals. The chief of the bureau advises that every precaution is being taken to prevent the disease from being brought to this country. Owing to the possibility of the virus being carried in hay or straw, used for packing imported goods, the warning is issued against permitting this material to reach susceptible animals.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

Mr. Sprinkle Blow up on his star in the sky was simply delighted to see the Twins.

"My, my! Did you come to help me again, kiddies? I've missed you terribly."

"We'd like to stay, but we can't," said Nancy. "We want you to help us this time, kind Mr. Fairymen." And she told him all about the errand she and Nick were on, and how they could not get over the Elderdun Mountain because the feathers inside of it were so fluffy and soft that they sank at every step, and Nancy had almost been lost completely.

"Well, well!" remarked Mr. Sprinkle Blow. "What can I do, my dears? That's the part of the world I know nothing about."

Then Nick told him what the red feather pen had written on the magic paper. How it had told them to ask for a rainstorm to flatten the feathers.

Mr. Sprinkle Blow laughed loud and long. "Ha, ha, ho! Ho, ho, ho!" he roared. "Why, you didn't need a fairy to tell you that, did you? Anyone with sense would know that feathers —Ha, ha, ha! I beg your pardon. I didn't mean to laugh," he declared, sobering suddenly when he saw Nick's offended look. "Sure as you're born, I'd never have thought of it myself. But it just shows that brains are as good as magic any day. But there! Let's see! I'll just roll my barrel marked Regular Pourdowns onto a cloud and get West Wind to push the cloud to the right spot, then I'll turn on the spigot. Your Elderdun Mountain will be as flat as a banana fritter in five minutes."

The fairymen had another idea. "Say!" he said. "If you two can wish yourselves up to the sky why didn't you wish yourselves across this mountain?"

"We're not allowed," said Nick. "It's a rule of the country that we must walk."

Learn a Word Every Day

Today's word is CREDULOUS.

It's pronounced—kred-yoo-lus, with accent on the first syllable.

It means—inclined to believe, apt to believe on slight evidence, easily imposed upon, gullible.

It comes from—Latin "credere," to believe.

Companion word—credulity.

It's used like this—"Those who promote wildcat stock schemes prey on credulous persons."

No man perhaps suspects how large and important the region of the unconscious in him is; what a vast unknown territory lies there back of his conscious will and purpose and which is really the controlling power of his life.—John Burroughs.

WILL EXPLAIN NEW APPLIANCE OF VICTOR X-RAY

April 10 to 15 Mr. Glenn W. Files of the educational department of the Victor X-ray corporation of Chicago will be in Bismarck and will give demonstrations of the Victor-Bucky Diaphragm, Victor Kearsley Stabilizer and Victor Sphere Gap at the St. Alexis hospital.

Mr. Files, who will conduct these demonstrations has been a close associate of Edward C. Terman, technical director of the educational department, and has unusual ability as a demonstrator.

A complete definition of these three demonstrations follow:

The Victor-Bucky Diaphragm principle, as developed in the Victor Model, is the most radical improvement in the X-ray art in recent years. Radiographs obtained with it are incomparably superior in detail, and consequently in diagnostic value.

The Victor-Kearsley Stabilizer is an apparatus which automatically maintains constant the current passing through a Coolidge tube, thus not only simplifying its operation, but insuring a uniformity of results heretofore not obtainable. Its function and manipulation will be demonstrated and explained.

The Victor Sphere Gap is an instrument designed in response to a demand for a means of accurately measuring high tension voltage (gap). In order to base measurements obtained with it on a uniform, nationally accepted standard, its specifications comply with those of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The demonstrations will be given in the X-ray laboratory of the St. Alexis hospital and will be free of charge.

Auditors Unable To Trace $132,207.49 Worth of Materials

Materials purchased by the North Dakota Home Building Association totalled almost $200,000.00 while labor cost another $100,000.00 according to figures of the Bishop-Brissman audit of the available records of the Association. The labor and material bills are still further augmented by items in which both had a part.

Of the material, the records of the Association allowed the auditors to find where $58,836.14 had been used. The total purchases were $195,120.27. Concerning items of labor, the records were more definite and the auditors were able to find where most of it had been used. In the mixed items, the audit was not so successful, only one dollar in three spent being traceable in plumbing and heating.

Combining many items together, the auditors disclose that they were unable to find where $132,207.49 worth of material was used. They indicate it is probable some of the lumber went into the J. N. Hagan house, to which it's than $10.00 worth was traced.

The records also do not disclose where $934.78 of painting was accomplished, $845.16 of wiring and fixtures, $1,027.63 of masonry, $24,331.40 of plumbing and heating, $170.78 of abstracts and fees, $500.23 of blue prints, $134.42 of water connections, $40.43 of fire and tornado insurance and $129.87 of compensation insurance.

Mr. Stanton Talks on Milk and Water Supply in the City

The regular meeting of the Women's Community Council held at the Masonic Temple Saturday afternoon was well attended and was unusually interesting throughout.

E. M. Stanton, city bacteriologist and assistant health officer, gave an address on the "Milk and Water Supply of the City of Bismarck." He gave the chemical process of purifying and sterilizing the water of the city. A daily analysis is necessary to keep the water as it should be. In speaking of the milk supply of the city Mr. Stanton told of the condition of the dairies and of the unsanitary way in which cows were kept in Bismarck. He asked that the ladies cooperate with the health officers in the milk, water and meat supply, and invited them to visit the health laboratory.

A report was given by the welfare committee asking that the women cooperate with Mr. Stanton in his work in giving Bismarck a clean milk and meat supply. They also reported that the dance halls were being superintended. The purpose of the "Friendly Visiting" was explained in this report, to encourage the building of social ideals in the home.

The Child Welfare committee gave an excellent report. 9,133 half pints of milk are now being supplied to the four public schools of the city and milk was supplied to St. Mary's school today. The purpose of this work is "to try and make Bismarck the city with the smallest percentage of underweight children." The committee ask the cooperation of the women for the success of Child Welfare week beginning May 7.

A report was given on the success of the Recreational Room, for the girls of the city, at the Will school. The first party was attended by 35 girls, the second by 75 girls and a third is being planned for the near future. A new committee has been appointed to have charge with Mrs. Moulle as chairman. Assisting Mrs. Moulle are Mesdames Martineson, Perry, Owens, Jones, Penner and Barnes.

BARBARISM VIES WITH DAINTINESS

Milady's Undergarments Are of Simple Tailoring in Cloths of Bizarre Patterns

There are two strong tendencies, seemingly opposed to each other, which have manifested themselves this spring in underwear fashions, the dainty and the feminine one.

The first is towards more tailored undergarments, and the other is towards bizarre effects.

Satin striped radium silks are in the lead as the popular fabric for strictly tailored undies. Corduroy crepe is also extensively used.

Many gorgeous and barbaric effects are gained by the use of colors that once would have seemed out of the question for underwear. Black radium with little panels of flame-colored silk inset, for instance, makes one lovely open house on Wednesday night. Non-members are invited to attend.

Miss Minnie Hennessy has returned from Minneapolis where she has been set. Vivid yellow, in the new shade, "dent de lion," is also being extensive. It is used, with trimmings of self color, black, or a bright blue.

While all the colors of the rainbow are seen in the latest underthings, the dainty and the feminine one still hold first place in popularity.

Orchid is the closest rival to flesh pink though Princess Mary's fondness for blue is likely to boom that color, in all shades, this spring.

One-tone satin brocaded crepes are also popular, those in white being especially liked for trousseau sets.

Delicate cottons are by no means out of the running, particularly for the athletic type of garment. Dimities in a variety of striped and checked effects, volles and printed muslins and cotton crepes are to be had.

Bismarck Boys

Judge A. M. Christianson will be the speaker at the Pioneer Grand Council tonight.

Two prizes offered for the identification of birds.

This is the time of the year to get acquainted with the birds as they arrive from the south.

The soft liquid note of the tree sparrow replaces the cheerful note of the Red Poll who moves north. Already the meadow lark decked in his yellow vest and black cravat calls a cheery good morning from the telephone pole or tree top and here and there a robin may be seen. The slate colored Junco for days has been displaying his two white tail feathers. Very soon the Grackles, the blackbirds, the Vesper, Fox and song sparrows and the Myrtle Warbler will arrive. Then the great army will flood in upon us.

To the boy who will make the highest average of first reports on the arrival of new birds will be given a Frank M. Chapman's book "What Bird is That?" and to the boy making the best list of birds a copy of "Reid's Bird Guide."

All reports are to be made to Russell Reid at the Public Library.

Dr. Cole, it is understood, took over the contract of Mr. Adams. Mr. and Mrs. Adams are now in Nebraska but expect to go to the Pacific Coast soon where he will engage in business. Dr. Cole will get possession of the house about May 1. The sale was made by the F. E. Hedden real estate agency.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

ACTION NOT BINDING

North Dakota like other states which have the primary law are attempting through one make-shift or another to secure party action through recourse to conventions. Ignoring primary laws, calls are being issued, county and state conventions held and the Grand Forks Herald is solemnly discussing the evils attending and the abuses following the operation of the unit rule.

The Forum recently referred to the action of the Nonpartisan League as "this matter of party discipline." Of course it was merely a slip of the editorial pen. Party discipline which the Forum sighs for has passed into desuetude, innocuous or otherwise, under the primary system imperfect as it is.

Action taken at Fargo or what may transpire at Jamestown is not binding upon republicans or democrats or socialists.

At Fargo for instance, the convention frankly avoided any reference to party labels. That was a meeting to endorse candidates committed to certain economic policies. It is presumed that the candidates nominated for office where party action is concerned will file in the republican primaries, but the delegates met as representatives of the nonpartisan league not as spokesmen for the republican party. In that respect at least the delegates were logical and there was no evidence of party discipline, it was merely the acceptance of the decision of the majority of leaguers which spurned party control. The league operates much after the fashion of a bloc and bids for support anywhere devoid of party feelings or scruples. If the Forum had termed it class or bloc discipline, that would have been nearer the truth. Republicans surely can draw little inspiration from the league convention, for it is this class or bloc pressure in state affairs that the independents are trying to eliminate.

The republicans of North Dakota can legally function as a party only at the polls June 23. Conventions at Fargo, Jamestown or elsewhere are merely group meetings to secure tickets which reflect the political affiliations of groups.

The electors of the state know what took place at Fargo. At Jamestown, however, there will be an effort to make it appear that the convention speaks finally for the republican party of North Dakota. Of course in the very nature of things, it is going to be hard to compose all political differences in a convention called by a certain faction of the republican party. The ipsi dixit of the Real Republican committee cannot tie the hands of the electors of the state whose powers of selection cannot be abridged or controlled by what takes place at Jamestown.

Senator McCumber is the senior senator in North Dakota. He has announced his candidacy on the republican ballot and whether endorsed or not at Jamestown, he will make the race, as far as his friends are informed at least. That much is certain now. It is just as unreasonable to ask McCumber's friends to accept the dictum of the Jamestown convention, as it would be to ask the supporters of Governor Nestos to accept the dictum of Jamestown if through some deal, trade or combination, Mr. Nestos were tricked out of a place on the ticket.

Just as unreasonable to ask McCumber to retire at the dictum of a convention dominated by the triple alliance—Real Republican committee, Real Democratic committee and the Committee of Forty-five—as to make the same demand of Gronna.

Republicans of North Dakota stand only for fair play. The most powerful agents of the Jamestown triple alliance convention have sought to eliminate McCumber and Judge Christianson from consideration as well as A. J. Gronna. Weeks in advance of this tri-group pow wow, there is evident a deliberate drive to force through a slate and a program by the men who happen to control the machinery which called the Jamestown convention into being.

As an agency to formulate a state program in opposition to the league control, there can be no criticism of the Jamestown pow wow. But to entrust to the triple alliance the destinies of the republican party savors too much of the kind of machine politics that this state is attempting to free itself from. If the independents opposed to league control are more concerned in ridding the state of socialism than to create a political machine, they have an excellent opportunity to show it at Jamestown.

Every man who loves his state wants to get it back to normalcy. There is a great work before the independents in returning the state government to a normal basis, but if the fight is to be abandoned to engage in political head hunting and settling up of old political feuds just because a few politicians feel their power, it must not be lone under false pretensions or in the name of a party over which no group has the power to usurp control.

North Dakota has achieved a great place in the nation's councils through the promotion of Senator McCumber. His republicanism cannot be questioned. His retention at the head of the finance committee is acceptable to President Harding and other leaders of the republican party.

In view of this situation, it is presumptuous to say the least that republicans must or should abide by the Jamestown convention as its actions may affect the shaping of the national policies. When it comes to consideration of strictly state issues why that is another matter.

There is a common ground upon which independents can stand in the approaching contest but that cannot be reached by the route of factional reprisals.

Senator McCumber should have the endorsement of republicans of North Dakota regardless of the clique to which they are aligned.

ACREAGE CUT

Only half as much grain will be grown in Russia this year as before the war. This news comes from the soviet commissar of agriculture.

Of all the stories that have come out of Russia about economic break-down this is the most illuminating.

To American farmers it means that Russia will not figure as a bear factor in the wheat market next fall.

GOLD RUSH

A gold rush has started in the Cedar Creek and Quesnel districts of British Columbia. A never-say-die prospector uncovered the yellow metal. News leaks out. Over snow trails flocked a greedy swarm, and all ground within 10 miles of the discovery has been staked.

As soon as anyone discovers a new invention, a good business location or other short-cut to wealth, the imitators, patent pirates and parasites surround him.

It seems to be fundamental in human nature. That's why the lock and key was one of man's first inventions.

UNWISE TO CHANGE

The people of this state should brood over the fact that eastern states of the Union hold nearly all of the principal chairmanships of the most important committees in congress because they keep a good man there for a long period of years. We have not devised any better plan to run this government than by party politics, and seniority of service in congress counts big. In Senator McCumber, North Dakota has one of the most influential members in congress and it would be unwise to change at this time.—Regent Times.

WHERE SCIENCE REALLY SERVES

Rev. J. G. Moore, of this city, has left for The Herald's inspection a copy of a St. John's, New foundland, paper containing an account of an air trip from the Newfoundland capital up the Labrador coast to a settlement 500 miles distant and return. The airplane carried mail and a quantity of such supplies as could conveniently be carried on such a craft, and while the voyagers had to contend with stormy and inclement weather, the trip was made in a brief time and in good order, and the plane carried on its return trip a quantity of valuable furs.

The story itself is an interesting one, but aside from being the record of an adventurous trip under severe conditions, it tends to fix attention on the service which science is rendering to human beings in out-of-the-way places. Dr. Moore is a native of Newfoundland, and in his early manhood he traveled extensively on the Labrador mainland. With a pack on his back he has tramped for days along the routes since made familiar through the writings of Dr. Grenfell, and he is familiar with the life of the fisher folks who live in the settlements along the coast, and of those who penetrate the interior in search of furs. During the winter the inhabitants of that district have been cut off for many weeks at a time from communication with the rest of the world, receiving mail and possibly medicines and light supplies once in a long time by dog sled.

Because of the inventiveness and the courage and the persistence of men in distant parts of the world, and because of the supplementing of one bit of scientific knowledge with another, those people can be reached within a few hours from an important city, can receive news of the world's doings while the events are still in progress, can obtain aid in emergencies, and can maintain in their distant shores abodes that contact which tends to knit all the peoples of the world together.

In the world's news a trip from St. John's to northern Labrador by airplane does not bulk very large. But it is an item in the sum total of human progress, and without such items we should have no progress.—Grand Forks Herald.

"Yes, in his office I saw him. He's in a good business down there at Tidborough. Dashed good. Fortune. East and Sabre. Never heard of them? Ah, well, that shows you're not a pillar of the Church, old son. "Yes you go down there and have a look, with your sketch-book. Old Sabre'll love to see you. . . . His wife? . . . Oh, very nice, distinctly nice. Pretty woman, very. Some how I didn't think quite the sort of a woman for old Puzzlehead. Didn't appear to have the remotest interest in any of the things he was keen about and he seemed a bit fed with her sort of talk. Hers was all gossip—all about the people there and what a rum crowd they were. Devilish funny, I thought, some of her stories. But old Sabre—well, I suppose he'd heard 'em before. Still, there was something—something about the two of them. You know that sort of—sort of stuff—feeling you sometimes feel in the air with two people who don't quite click."

EVERETT TRUE

self in tobacco smoke, and where he "can have his own things around him and "have his pipes and his pictures about him," and where he can wear "an old shooting jacket and slippers"—and he loathed and detested all these phrases and the ideas they connoted. He had no "old shooting jacket" and he would have given it to the gardener if he had; and he detested wearing slippers and never did wear slippers; it was his habit to put on his boots after his bath and to keep them on till he put on shoes when changing for dinner. Above all, he loathed and detested the vision which the word "den" always conjured up to him. This was a vision of the door of a typical den being opened by a wife, and of the wife saying in a mincing voice. "This is George in his den," and of boarding-house females peering over the wife's shoulder and smiling fatuously at the denizen who, in an old shooting jacket and slippers, grinned vacuously back at them. To Mark this was a horrible and unspeakable vision.

The matter of the den and another matter, touching the servants, came up between them in the very earliest days of their married life. Mabel had been busy "settling things," and she took him round the house with delicious pride and happiness. Mark, sharing both, had his arm linked in hers. When they came to the fourth sitting room Mabel announced gaily, "And this is your den!"

Mark gave a mock groan. "Oh, lord, not den!"

"Yes, of course, den. Why ever not?"

"I absolutely can't stick den." He glanced about. "Who on earth's left those fearful old slippers there?"

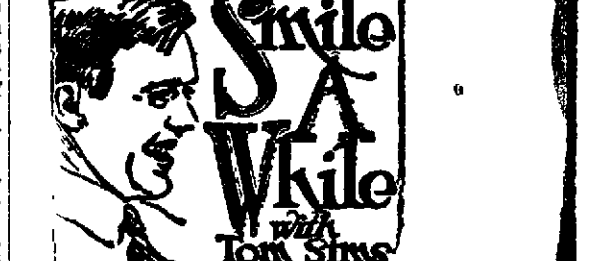

"They're a pair of father's. I took them specially for you for this room. You haven't got any slippers like that."

He gazed upon the heels down-trodden by her heavy father. He did not much like her heavy father. "No, I haven't," he said, and thought grimly, "Thank God!"

Mabel opened the kitchen door. "The master's come to see how nice the kitchen looks."

Two maids in black dresses and an extraordinary amount of stiffly starched aprons and caps and streamers rose awkwardly and bobbed awkward little bows. Mabel was very tall, the other rather short. Mabel looked from the girls to Mark and from Mark to the girls, precisely the way with exhibiting rare specimens to her husband and her husband to her rare specimens. And in the tone of one exhibiting pinned, dried and completely impersonal specimens, she announced, "They're sisters. Their name is Jinks." Mark, examining the exhibits, had been feeling like a fool. Their name humanized them and relieved his awkward feeling. "Ha! Jinks, eh? High Jinks and Low Jinks, what?" He laughed. It struck him as rather comic; High Jinks and Low Jinks tittered broadly, losing in the most astonishing way the oner severity and the other her glumness.

BOXING MATCH DATES FIXED

Bismarck and Mandan Promoters Agree on Program

Mandan and Bismarck boxing match promoters were in conference in Bismarck today, the conference resulting in an agreement upon dates for boxing matches and agreement for both Mandan and Bismarck committees to work harmoniously to boost the game.

It was announced by O. W. Roberts, for the Bismarck Athletic Association, that the boxing match scheduled to be held here April 21 with Frank Roberts and Silver Perry as headliners had been postponed until May 21.

On April 21 "Buddy" McDonald, of Fargo, and Battling Krause, of Bismarck, will meet in a return engagement in the Fair Grounds ring at Mandan. The boys fought a rattling ten rounds here in February and they are expected to put on fully as good exhibition at Mandan.

Kid Pitchers Show Promise

Mack Has Three Recruits Who Have Chance to Stick

One big reason why Connie Mack hopes to make considerable trouble this year lies in his pitching staff. In addition to his regulars—Harris, Hasty, Rommel, Taylor and Moore—he believes three of the youngsters taken south will prove valuable second string men.

Helmach, a left hander, tried out last spring and then sent to Moline, Ill. is certain to stick. He helped Earl Mack win a pennant in the Three-I League, where he won 24 and lost eight games. He also is a good hitter and Connie expects some help from him.

Bryan Yarrison, with Rocky Mount last year, is a pitcher of the Carl Mays type. He uses an underhand delivery that is very effective. Yarrison is a graduate of Gettysburg College. Frank Loftis, who pitched in the Blue Ridge League last season, looks promising. He has done excellent work in the exhibition games.

Veteran Wins Over Recruit

Johnston Will Start at First Base for the Athletics

"Doc" Johnston, who was almost waived out of the American League, will start the season as the regular first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Joe Hauser, the much touted first sacker from Milwaukee, will be forced to hide his time.

Mack secured Hauser in a deal that took several players to Milwaukee plus some money. Because of a grievance he believed he had against Milwaukee over his sale he was the last man to report at Eagle Pass, the training camp of the Athletics.

It was a bad move on Hauser's part. Johnston anxious to stick in the big show, reported in fine shape, worked hard and is certain to start the season. Since Johnston always goes big guns for the first half of the season it may be around July before Hauser gets a real chance to show his worth.

Jimmy Dykes will play second, Chick Galloway third and either Callaway or Barrett short.

Mack's confident this infield will be a big improvement over last year. That is one reason why he expects to win more games, a stronger defense.

Sport Flashes From South

Durst is the name of the youngster who is going big in the camp of the St. Louis Browns. The only thing the vets don't like about him is his first name, Cedric. He is an outfielder.

Chick Fewster will hold down Babe Ruth's place in left field until the Yankee star is reinstated.

Right field will be a bothersome spot for Miller Huggins until Bob Meusel can get back into the game. Pophy Roth may get a chance in right. Possibly Wally Schang will be used in the outfield.

Lee Fohl says that Dave Danforth can make or break the Browns' pennant chances, and that he figures Dave will make 'em.

Kid Gleason is much pleased with the showing that Pitcher Leverette is making. The Sox secured him from Fort Smith, Ark.

Pophy Roth is the most unique holdout of the season. Roth was unfit for play practically all year. He received his entire salary. Now he seeks more money.

George Mogridge, who intended retiring, has heard the call, signed a contract and reported to the Washington club.

Miller Huggins of the Yankees says he has no intention of using "Lefty" O'Doul in right field. Huggins wants to make a pitcher out of him. He had a big season on the coast last year.

Manager Mitchell of the Braves is of the opinion that the addition of the veteran southpaw Phil Marquard, just about makes his pitching staff.

Jimmy Caveney and his glove.

In speaking of the ability of certain players, pitchers in particular, one often hears the expression: "He hasn't a thing except a glove and a prayer."

Jimmy Caveney, the sensation of the Pacific Coast League, Cincinnati's new shortstop, is rated as one of the most promising players that has broken into the National League in years. Certainly no one can accuse Caveney of having a glove. Possibly Jimmy will prove strong on prayer, but his glove is the most disreputable looking thing that ever broke into the big show.

Caveney has a great pair of hands, as shown in the picture. They are big, on the Hans Wagner type, ideal for an infielder.

Caveney's glove is of an ancient vintage. It is bandaged with adhesive tape in a dozen places.

However, it is a priceless asset with Caveney.

This arrangement is neither notably weak nor is it very strong. It seems to be the best that the outfield material at Manager Miller Huggins' disposal permits.

Miller is a splendid fielder but an uncertain hitter and Fawcett and Skinner are good hitters but erratic fielders. Haines is a wonderful defensive man, quite as effective in this respect as Elmer Miller himself. However, it is a question whether he will ever be able to hit up to major league requirements.

Haines is naturally a right-handed batter, but seems to be muscled in his right shoulder and cannot get a good, free swing from his normal stance.

Manager Miller Huggins has him batting left-handed this spring and the results to date have been most encouraging. But whether he will continue to hit when the pitchers get good is another thing again.

This is the same combination as that which started the 1921 campaign, and except during periods of enforced inactivity for Baker, remained intact practically throughout the season.

The only apparent weakness in this arrangement is at third base, where Baker is thought to be too brittle to survive the wear and tear of another strenuous race.

Baker is getting old, as baseball players measure age, and his legs are none too good. Injuries to his legs forced him out of the game for long periods at more than one critical stage of the 1921 pennant pursuit. It is feared that he will be the victim of the same fate again this year.

Fortunately for their chances of winning another pennant, however, the Yankees are well equipped with extra infielders. Mike McNulty, who played so brilliant a game after replacing Baker last season, again is available for service. Huggins also has McMillan, a most promising youngster, in reserve.

TOPS ALL BEST SELLERS

I am glad to have the opportunity of thanking the Americans for their kindness to me. I look forward to visiting the United States and meeting some of them personally.

A. S. M. Hutchinson

HUTCHINSON'S MESSAGE TO HIS AMERICAN READERS: "I AM GLAD TO HAVE THIS OPPORTUNITY OF THANKING THE AMERICANS FOR THEIR KINDNESS TO ME. I LOOK FORWARD TO VISITING THE UNITED STATES AND MEETING SOME OF THEM PERSONALLY."

Over a million purchasers of a single novel!

This is the phenomenal sales figure which responsible book jobbers say may be reached by A. S. M. Hutchinson's novel "If Winter Comes," now the best seller of the English-speaking world.

At present, "If Winter Comes" has sold over 300,000 copies and is holding a daily sales record of over 2000 copies. Despite this showing, skeptics are doubtful if the novel of the English author can reach the American records of "Quo Vadis" and "David Harum."

In various editions both of these novels have sold over one million copies, but the sales of a generation ago were made at lower prices and in the face of less keen competition than at present.

In going over the records of best sellers of other years, conservative dealers say that "If Winter Comes" and "Richard Carvel" will run a close race. The publishers of Churchill's novel report a total sale of 658,000.

Twenty to twenty-five years ago the best selling lists included "Quo Vadis" by Henryk Sienkiewicz, "David Harum" by Edward Wescott, "Richard Carvel" and "The Crisis" by Winston Churchill, "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush" by Ian MacLaren, "When Knighthood Was in Flower" by Charles Major, "The Right of Way" by Gilbert Parker, "The Choir Invisible" by James Lane Allen, "Eben Holden" by Irving Bacheller, "To have and to hold" by Mary Johnston, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" by Alice Hegan Rice, "The Virginian" by Owen Wister, and "Janice Meredith" by Paul Leicester Ford.

Of these novelists only Winston Churchill, Irving Bacheller, and possibly Gilbert Parker, are writing best sellers today. The others have died, fallen in popular favor or ceased to cater to the populace.

Another crop of best-sellers has held forth during the past ten years. These include Harold Bell Wright, Gene Stratton Porter, Jeffery Farnol, the late Eleanor H. Porter, creator of "Pollyanna", Zane Grey, E. Phillips Oppenheim, Booth Tarkington, Edith Wharton, Ethel M. Dell, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Joseph C. Lincoln, Peter B. Kyne, and James Oliver Curwood.

Now the newer authors have attained the honor of being the foremost sellers—Sinclair Lewis, whose "Main Street" was the leader of the 1920-1921 publishing season, and A. S. M. Hutchinson, whose fourth book, "If Winter Comes," has been the literary achievement of the past six months.

According to the publishers of "Main Street," 47,000 copies were sold during 1920 and 295,000 in 1921, making a total of 342,000 up to the first of the year. "Main Street" was Lewis' sixth novel to be published, but his first one to become a best seller.

Another crop of best-sellers has held forth during the past ten
